

Exclusive Invitation—Become the Next Ronald Reagan Fellow: Join Our Dynamic Legal, Policy, & Communications Teams at the Goldwater Institute This Fall!

The Goldwater Institute invites you to apply for our exciting Ronald Reagan Fellows Internship Program this fall semester. Named in honor of the late President Ronald Reagan, who earned the Barry Goldwater Award for his exemplary leadership and commitment to human freedom, our program offers college students and recent graduates the chance of a lifetime to acquire a foundational understanding of the classical liberal principles that guided his presidency. If you are looking for ways to open doors to sought-after career paths that may be difficult with a degree alone, we encourage you to join our team for a semester. Here, you will gain one-of-a-kind valuable experiences that have helped set our past fellows on the path to success. Our interns have gone on to accept policy research positions in the nation's capital; gain entry into prestigious graduate schools to study law, economics and public policy and; even get hired into exciting fulltime positions here at the Institute.

Once inducted into our program, students gain a firsthand knowledge of free market ideals freedoms through policy research, staff mentoring, seminar attendance, event participation, and administrative assistance—giving them a firm grasp of how game-changing think tanks shape public policy at both local and national levels. Whether it's through writing a compelling monthly letter-to-the-editor for influential publications; networking at public policy events and guest speaker forums or; assisting our legal, policy, communications, special events, or fundraising teams, Reagan Fellows glean the experience they need to lead fulfilling careers in fields that shape the direction of our nation.
